Congressman Studds set the informal tone of the meeting at once. He sat comfortably on the conference table and said that he expected that people would arrive and would leave at will during the course of the meeting. Immediately preceding the open meeting, the Congressman met with Selectmen to bring them up to date on questions dealing with the current status of Federal participation with water and sewer projects and other programs in which the Selectmen are interested

The current events concerning the administration are developing so rapidly he said that it is difficult to predict anything. He said that 3 weeks ago impeachment proceedings by the Congress would have seemed a ridiculous prediction. Now, he said, such preliminaries are in progress and the Congressional mail is overwhelmingly advocating impeachment of the President. He said that often of late, he has wished he were Republican so that he could speak our freely and frankly. He explained that Democrats are necessarily suppressing their views because the situation demands that partisan politics play no part in the proceedings. He said that there are two schools of thought on the confirmation of Gerald Ford as Vice President. Some believe that the action should be without delay. Others are of the opinion that action should await the result of either the clearing or implication of the President in the Watergate affair. He personally favors the immediate selection of a Vice President although he would prefer that a stronger Republican figure were the choice of the President. Congressman Studds said that he would prefer that President Nixon resign as the course that would be in the best national interest. He said that members of the House and Senate, if impeachment charges be pressed,

He said that Carl Albert has no wish to assume the Presidency and that he favors an immediate decision and appointment of a Vice President. In this Congressional district mail, telegrams and phone calls have called for impeachment 2,081 to 40 the Congressman said.

Questions were asked on the subjects of national medical insurance, the oil crisis, public transportation, minimum wage, the sale of wheat to Russia, limiting cost of government programs.

The Congressman said that New England should prepare to be chilly this winter. He said that Congress was caught flatfooted on this crisis because it had no data upon which to base an evaluation of the problem. He said that gas rationing is a possibility even though repeated denials have been forthcoming from the executive branch. He said that New England can expect no relief from Alaskan oil; that the west coast will receive the bulk of that oil and that talk is already proceeding on the exporting of Alaskan oil to Japan. He said that the oil interests have an extremely powerful lobby and that these

On the Russian wheat deal, the Congressman said that, at the same time that the Agriculture Department was concluding negotiations with the Russians, other Agriculture Department officials down the hall were sending huge sums to American farmers for not raising wheat. He said barges of wheat now line the Mississippi river bound for Russia. Wheat trains converge on the upper Mississippi in such numbers that they created a transportation shortage in boxcars. The shortage of wheat is the direct cause of the increasing price of bread. He said that he hopes that Congress in this year will end the subsidy payment to wheat growers so they can return to growing grain.

Congressman Studds said that he personally reads all of his mail and that he maintains a New Bedford office where people can phone his staff to express their view or to request assistance. He thanked those who attended the meeting for their comments and questions. He said that he will shortly send out a newsletter with a questionnaire which will poll the District on major issues before the Congress.

Letter to the Editor

I am the Mother of two teenagers. One, who is just 13, has already discovered the joys of smoking. I have appealed to his good sense, but to a child of that age, it is inconceivable that anything bad could happen to him from smoking.

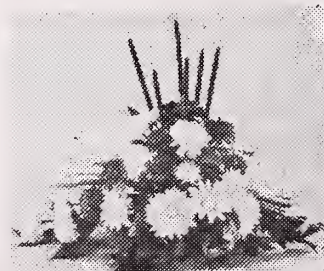

I know one of his friends, who is much younger than he, has been smoking heavy for more than a year.

All we parents can do is talk to our kids, and keep cigarettes out of their reach.

So I am appealing to the establishments who sell cigarettes not to sell them to young children even with a note from their parents, and places with coin operated machines to watch them a little closer.

Thank you,

Bulldogs Triumph

OLD ROCHESTER DOWNS FAIRHAVEN 6 to 0

It was defense Saturday afternoon on the Old Rochester gridiron as the Bulldogs hosted the Blue Devils of Fairhaven. Old Rochester won 6 to 0. Mistakes and penalties hurt both teams all afternoon and it wasn't until the 4th quarter that Old Rochester finally hit pay dirt and scored the only touchdown of the afternoon.

Fairhaven had a golden opportunity to score in the first quarter when an Old Rochester punt from deep in their own territory was blocked and Fairhaven recovered the ball on the Old Rochester 2. On the second play quarterback Wayne Fernandes ran in for a touchdown but an illegal procedure penalty nullified the score. Fairhaven moved the ball back to the 2 on the first play after the penalty but on the second play fumbled and Old Rochester recovered.

Old Rochester managed to reach the Fairhaven 16 late in the second quarter on a screen pass from quarterback Joe Francoeur to Peter Nelson from the Fairhaven 39 but a play later a clipping penalty brought the ball back to the Fairhaven 30 and the half ended.

Old Rochester's 6 points came with just a little over 5 minutes left in the game. Old Rochester started the drive on their own 32 and moved the ball to the Fairhaven 32. From there Peter Nelson ran to the 1 where he was stopped but on the next play Francoeur, on a keeper, went over for the 6. The 2-point conversion try was no good.

On the ensuing kick-off Fairhaven starting on its own 38 moved the ball to the Old Rochester 32 but finally ran out of downs and Old Rochester took over. They moved to the Fairhaven 19 but the whistle blew ending the game.

This Saturday, Old Rochester, in its last home game of this season, hosts the Falcons from Dighton-Rehoboth.

CORRECTION

A mix-up of captions in last week's Presto gave the wrong credit line to two of the excellent floats taking part in the "I Love Bulldog Day" competition. The float with the Seekonk dog catcher was the entry of the Sophomore class and the Freshman float was the Bulldog munching on the Seekonk player. We apologize for the error.

P.T.C. Book Fair

This month the Mattapoisett P.T.C. will again sponsor a Book Fair at Center and Old Hammondtown Schools. The Fair will be held at the Center School Library on November 12, 13 and 14 (half a day), and at Old Hammondtown in the cafeteria on November 16, 19 and 20. Members of the P.T.C. will be available during school hours to help you with your selections.

On the first day of the sale in each school, the children will be allowed to go through the books in order to list their preferences. They will bring their lists home so that parents, grandparents, relatives and friends may find some suggestions for birthday or Christmas gifts.

This sale provides a perfect opportunity to choose good books from a wide selection of material. Reading is a child's most important learning tool. Now is the time to encourage our children to read.

Of course, all profits from the sale will be used by the P.T.C. to benefit the children.

The Short Memory

Editorial, D.C.J.

Sunday night Congressman Gerry Studds related to a Mattapoisett gathering that his mail was running 2,081 to 40 advocating the impeachment of President Nixon. In spite of the deplorable events that beset the administration this condemnation is emotional reaction at its worst by an electorate that gave that same man a smashing landslide with knowledge of the Watergate affair.

Henry Kissinger, working with and for President Nixon, is about to be honored worldwide as a Nobel Peace Prize recipient which indicates that Nixon can't be all wrong in his choice of subordinates. The President's performance in office has been remarkable. He has ended a war that was inherited from several administrations. True, his performance domestically is hampered at every turn by Congressional liberals who are still voting the billions with no regard for the taxpaying voter. Mr. Studds deplored that many billions in programs voted by the Congress are impounded or have been vetoed by the President. Mr. Studds did not mention that each one of those billions must be raised by increased taxation. If President Nixon, in this term in office, does nothing else but keep the liberal spenders from further bankrupting the nation he has accomplished a miracle.

The President, in his impossible job, is expected to be superhuman. He is expected to be an angel of the most spotless virtue. At the same time, he is expected to play nuclear chess with the Russians and win. So, in this instance, he is to lay aside the halo to become a devil. He is supposed to control inflation and at the same time give every special group its own selfish cut of the national treasury. He is supposed to initiate and put into practice programs which have to pass through a hostile Congress. He is damned if he sells wheat to the Russians. He would be damned if wheat rotted in the silos while our foreign creditors demanded gold to satisfy the balance of payments.

Impeachment is not a popularity contest. I believe that an impeachment of the President would be the most dangerous step in the history of this nation. Our Presidency has always been a stable office. Our Presidency has always been given basic backing by responsible politicians even though they were at opposite poles of political philosophy. Should the Presidency become a weak target of a political coup, we have only to look at South America or France for an example of the future.

President Nixon is a mortal. He has his faults. He is in the most demanding and difficult job on the face of the earth. He is under fire from liberals of both parties and in this respect this impeachment move will be absolutely non-partisan.

If the Congressional mail were running a million to 0 for impeachment, I would still oppose it. This is not only because I would wish to protect the Presidency. It is also because under the definition of the Constitution, grounds for impeachment do not include loss of popularity among the public.

I cast my one vote against impeachment and the hope that the Congress would soon get back to the business of the country and stop circling the White House like vultures. If New England is to freeze this winter, Congress will not really have noticed or cared in their preoccupation with political purity and virtue, a newly discovered concept concerning only the executive branch.

The purpose of this program was to make the children more aware of the importance of safe bicycle riding. Mrs. Arthur W. McLean introduced Sergeant Robert Moore of the Mattapoisett Police Department who gave an excellent talk. He discussed the safety rules and regulations which apply to bicycles. Using a bicycle to illustrate all necessary equipment required, he stressed the importance of having bicycle equipment checked frequently.
